

Carte's inaugural oath, ceremonies mark first in nation's third century

(AP) — Jimmy Carter, 56, from Georgia to become 33rd president of the United States. The inauguration ceremony will last less than an hour. The ceremony will be a solemn occasion. The ceremony will be a solemn occasion. The ceremony will be a solemn occasion.

Administration, the secretary of the Smithsonian Institution and Roger Billings, president and founder of the energy company.

Before the inauguration, come other festivities: a gala at the Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts with a wide assortment of show business personalities, a prayer service on the steps of the Lincoln Memorial featuring the Rev. Martin Luther King Sr.

Carter will take the 35-word oath to support and defend the Constitution, administered by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, following the swearing-in of his chosen vice president, former Sen. Walter F. Mondale of Minnesota.

Carter, elected in a campaign in which he orated against centralized Washington, proclaimed it a people's inauguration and his committee sent out invitations to hundreds of thousands.

For days there have been jazz and classical music recitals, poetry readings, lectures and square dances in church, and branches of the Smithsonian Institution, the Library of Congress, Capitol Hill, and in the public park.

For the more affluent, there were seven inaugural balls in public buildings and downtown halls on Thursday night. Tickets to the balls cost $25 per person.

The 52-year-old Carter, the former Navy officer and Georgia peanut processor, represented a new face, the transition took on even more significance in his replacement of the outgoing President, Gerald R. Ford.

Ford, narrowly defeated in November after trailing badly in public opinion polls for months, was the epitome of the Washington political figure whose prime goal for decades was to become speaker of the House. He never made it, but he was chosen by former President Richard M. Nixon to be vice president under the 25th amendment when Spiro T. Agnew resigned. When Nixon resigned in the Watergate scandals of August, 1973, Ford became president.

Ford chose a quiet departure from the Washington scene.

Associates quoted Ford as saying that after the formal inauguration ceremony beginning at 11:30 a.m. EST Thursday, he would fly with his wife, Betty, to Monterey, Calif.

Ford then planned to travel across the country, playing in several golf tournaments and talking with students on college campuses.

Among Carter's relatives scheduled to attend the events were his wife, Rosalynn, his daughter Amy, about to attend a public school not far from the White House, his mother, Miss Lillian, a Peace Corps veteran, and brother Billy, a self-proclaimed redneck.

The weather forecast called for temperatures of 26-30 degrees for the inaugural parade scheduled along the 1 1/2 miles from Capitol Hill to the White House.

The Army alerted 800 men from Ft. George G. Meade, Md., for emergency duty, and it called out 200 to break up encrusted ice from the Capitol grounds and along the parade route.

There had been plans to have the parade reviewing stand heated by solar energy, but it appeared likely that a supplementary electrical system would have to be pressed into action because of the subfreezing temperatures.

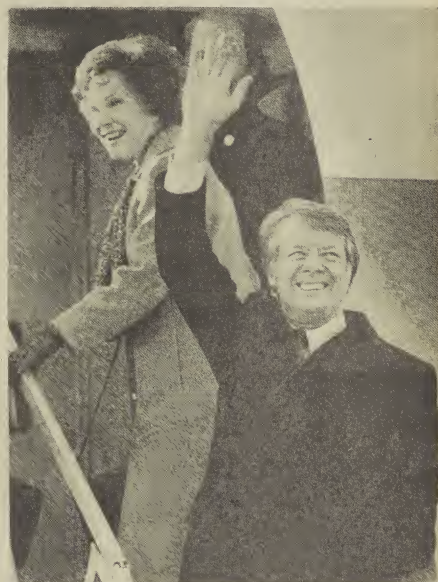

The grand marshal of the parade will be former Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, the Minnesota senator.

Carter, born on Oct. 1, 1924, in the tiny southwest Georgia town of Plains, started running for the presidency two years ago at the end of his term as governor of Georgia.

When his father died in 1953, he had returned to Plains and developed a profitable peanut-processing business and a seed and farm-supply operation.

He became a pillar in his church — a "born-again Christian" in his own words.

He was elected to the state house over the opposition of entrenched political interests, and shocked many when he said in his inaugural address that no Georgian should "ever again be deprived of the opportunity for a job, an education, or simple justice because he is poor, rural, black or not influential."

President-elect Jimmy Carter, with his wife Rosalynn, waves goodbye as he boards a charter jet for his flight to Washington for inauguration ceremonies.

Sloat said he hopes to find a permanent replacement by next Thursday. He said he has four or five applications but there are "a lot of criteria to consider" before the appointment can be made.

"The appointment is made soon," Sloat said, "that person will go ahead and act as Organizations Vice President and not wait until the ratifying vote."

He explained he would call a special Executive Council meeting, "if the appointment is made before Monday. If I make it after Tuesday, I'll just wait till Thursday's Executive Council meeting," he said.

For business other than official, Sloat said Bob Hare, assistant to the former Organizations Vice President, is in charge. "He's worked in there all along. We'll handle this together," Sloat added.

Hare said the Organizations office is wrapping up Organizations Week and is not anticipating any major problems that might put pressure on the President's office.

It may "take a little longer to handle problems," he said, because any problems an elected official would have to handle must be referred to an activities adviser or himself, according to Sloat.

Hare added he does not foresee any problems if things stay the way they are.

The office will not have any trouble functioning properly, "if it's only about a week or so before the replacement officially takes office," Kelley said.

Jury trial asked in suit against county officials

By DARYL GIBSON
Universe Staff Writer

The plaintiffs in a suit changing several Utah County officials with restricting trade through zoning decisions have demanded a jury trial.

According to a spokesman for the United States District Court in Salt Lake City, where the suit was filed, the case has been assigned to Judge Aldon Anderson for the hearing.

The plaintiffs in the suit are alleging that Utah County commissioners Yukus Inouye and Karl Lyman, along with the Utah County Planning Commission, made biased and unfair decisions against the plaintiffs.

The suit charges that "the defendants have embarked upon a scheme to restrict trade in the use and sale of real property within Utah County, UState of Utah and, in particular, have restrained the plaintiffs' use and sale of the property."

They also state in their suit that the defendants have used real estate development companies in which one of the commissioners and a member of the planning commission are involved.

They allege that Lincoln Realty, of which planning commission member Lowell Christensen is secretary-treasurer, and Highland Manor Estates, owned by Inouye, have received favorable treatment in zoning matters where the plaintiffs have not.

According to the Federal Court spokesman, no summonses have been served in the matter. They said summonses in the matter had to be served by the plaintiffs.

They also say in the suit the zoning ordinance passed recently by the county commission is "unconstitutional."

"I am firmly convinced that these people are tampering with our constitutional rights," Howard Jensen, one of the plaintiffs in the suit, said.

Jensen said the defendants in the suit had, in his opinion, given breaks to other parties when they had turned him down for building permits.

"I think the most universal and the most odious of all discrimination is the discrimination against the poor," he said.

He added the commissioners had downgraded the price of county lands by restricting development on them.

Campus employees may pick up W-2s

BYU employees can pick up 1976 W-2 tax forms in B-20 ASB from now until Tuesday.

According to the Payroll Department, the 1040 forms will be mailed after Jan. 25.

"No forms will be held after Jan. 25," a department spokesman said.

Double taxation subject of bills

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — A series of bills designed to eliminate the double taxation problem in Salt Lake City and county were introduced in the Utah Legislature Wednesday.

In their legislative action, a bill to change Utah's open public meeting law was amended several times in a House committee and the legislature rescinded its earlier passage of a bill to make parents financially responsible for a child's vandalism.

Salt Lake City and County went to court over the county's levying taxes for services to unincorporated county areas. The Utah Supreme Court ruled the levies amounted to double taxation and were illegal.

The bills, sponsored by Rep. Sherm Harner, R-Salt Lake, are supported by both governments. They would allow the county to set up special districts levying a maximum of ten mills.

The bills would also give the county the option of charging fees for services provided such as fire protection, garbage collection and street lighting.

One measure would make it easier for the county to set up a taxing district. Under present law if taxpayers representing 40 per cent of the assessed property protest, the county cannot form the district.

Harner proposes to increase that to 50 per cent. He notes that Kennecott Copper Corp. accounts for 36 per cent of the assessed valuation in the county and has in the past led the move to block formation of a special district.

Lee Farnsworth, R-Provo, who serves on the Local and State Government Committee, said the open meeting bill requires governmental bodies to give notice before holding meetings.

The bill originally required 72 hours notice before a meeting could be held but was amended to require notice in a reasonable time.

Other amendments were expected Friday, Farnsworth said.

The vandalism bill was placed at the bottom of the House calendar for later consideration. It had passed on Tuesday.

Rep. Lorin Pace, R-Salt Lake, said he thought it might encourage vandalism by children anxious to embarrass their parents.

In other action, the House passed a bill which allows farmers to claim up to $2,000 a year for damages done by big game. The previous limit was $200.

Demos move to block decontrol on gasoline

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford acted Wednesday to lift price controls from gasoline, but the action on his last day in office ran into stiff opposition in the Democratic-controlled Congress, where moves to veto the action were immediately launched.

The efforts under way in both House and Senate to reject the gasoline decontrol proposal seemed likely to succeed with many members expressing concern about the consumer price impact while others saying the question should be left to the incoming Carter administration.

Congress has 15 days to nullify Ford's move. A negative vote in either chamber would kill the action.

Congressional critics previously said the decontrol move could add six cents a gallon to gasoline prices paid by motorists. The Ford administration said the price hikes would be much lower.

The administration said an end of price controls was necessary to provide incentives for the petroleum industry to increase exploration and refinery capacity. The controls were established in the wake of the 1973-1974 Arab oil embargo when prices were rising rapidly.

In the House, Reps. John D. Dingell, D-Mich., and Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., drafted a resolution to block the action within an hour after it was announced by the White House.

Congressional sources said opposition to the move is so great that a veto to block it could come as early as Thursday.

A similar resolution was being circulated in the Senate by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Interior Committee. Jackson was trying to round up as many signatures of key Senate Democrats as possible before introducing the measure.

The resolution will express the feeling of the Senate leadership that the issue of gasoline decontrol should be left to the incoming Carter administration, according to a Senate source.

The Federal Energy Administration said the end of price hikes might send the price of unleaded gas up about two cents a gallon — reflecting its higher refining costs.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford Wednesday ruled out blanket amnesty for Vietnam military deserters and draft evaders but directed that received other-than-honorable discharges have their status changed to honorable discharges. Ford late last month had said he would look into the possibility of a general amnesty for Vietnam war deserters and draft resisters after he was asked to pardon by the widow of Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., who had supported such amnesty.

Road use limited to Echo campsite

Road use in the North Fork of American Fork Canyon will be restricted beginning today. The restriction will apply to all vehicles other than snowmobiles. The restriction will be in effect at Echo Campground during the rest of the winter season. Limited parking will be available from the fork of the road to Echo Campground. The restriction is necessary to prevent resource damage in accordance with the Off-Road Vehicle Plan approved by the forest supervisor in December. The restriction is for public safety in snowmobiling and other winter activities. Prohibiting road use prevents damage which occurs under wet conditions and preserves a groomed snowmobile trail. The Utah State Division of Parks and Recreation will maintain the road from Echo Campground as a snowmobile trail in conjunction with the American Fork Snowmobile Trail complex.

In a letter to Mrs. Hart today, the President said he had "decided to maintain my position on earned clemency and hope you will understand." "Within my clemency program, however, I have directed that the other-than-honorable discharges received by former service members who were wounded in combat or received decorations for valor in combat in Vietnam each be reviewed and upgraded to discharges under honorable conditions unless there is a compelling reason to the contrary in any case," Ford wrote. A White House spokesman said only deserters would be affected by Ford's new directive and that at most 700 veterans would be eligible. The White House released a copy of the letter to Mrs. Hart after deputy White House counsel Edward Schmults had telephoned Mrs. Hart and read the letter to her. The President also sent letters to the secretaries of the three armed services and the commandant of the Coast Guard asking them to evaluate how many people would be eligible under his new program. Those who have their other-than-honorable discharge changed to honorable would become eligible for veterans benefits, including medical care and GI educational benefits. In 1974, Ford offered draft resisters, but not deserters, a form of limited amnesty by giving them the opportunity to "work their way back into society" through public service. According to White House calculations, 106,472 draft resisters were eligible for the program but only 21,723 took advantage of it before it expired last year. Many of those eligible refused to accept Ford's offer because they felt they had acted morally by resisting what they believed to be an illegal war and therefore required no clemency.

Extra coyotes lose their hides to coats

WALLA WALLA, Wash. (AP) — The usually wily coyote is breaking the law of supply and demand and paying for it with his hide, says a Washington Game Department biologist. The state's coyote population has increased steadily since 1972, said biologist Lee Stream of Walla Walla, who started a coyote research program a year ago. But the growing number of the canine scavengers hasn't diminished the value of coyote fur. Buyers in Spokane last month paid as much as $85 for a large, near-perfect skin. The biologist said coyote pelts sometimes are dyed to resemble wolf or cat fur. The pelts can be found on some coats that sell for as much as $1,800, he added.

Stream said the high prices are due partly to a scarcity of wild cat pelts. He noted that importing cat fur is now restricted because many species are classified as endangered. Demand for coyote fur also has increased because of a ban on the use of wolf pelts for parkas and other clothing, he said. "Hunting at an accelerated pace like we are seeing will cut into the coyote population, but it should only serve to reduce it, not to decimate the numbers," said Stream.

Identity lost in crowd?

Full-time missionaries assigned to BYU said they feel as though they are losing their identity in the midst of a crowd.

Identity seems to be a problem for Elders Leslie Travis of Atlanta, Ga. and Earl Brundage of Red Bluff, Calif. and Sisters Barbara Grady of College Park, Md. and Valerie Furrow of Naples, Fla. People confuse all the time with the LTM (Language Training Mission) missionaries," said Elder Brundage. "It's a low blow to have people ask you where you're going on your mission." For his companion, identity seems to be a problem of familiarity. "We lost our identity over the holidays simply because people aren't familiar with us," said Elder Travis.

Y Indians donation recipients

BYU has received a gift of $11,286 to be used in American Indian programs, according to Donald T. Nelson, director of The Development Office of the LDS Church.

The donors are Mary B. Timmins of Salt Lake City and her son William M. Timmins, a member of the faculty of the BYU Graduate School of Management. They specified that the gift be used in programs helping Indian and Spanish-speaking students at BYU. The contribution was given in honor of Mrs. Timmins' late husband, W. Mont Timmins, Sr.

"My husband and I worked with many Indian people in Texas and here in Utah," Mrs. Timmins explained. "We really came to love these people, and I'm happy to help them in any way I can."

BYU Indian programs include financial, personal, and academic services for the school's 500 American Indian students. Other projects sponsored by BYU are designed to improve agricultural methods on reservations in the United States, Canada, and Mexico, and to combat Indian alcoholism.

Signalling device saves heart patients

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Katherine Held felt the chest pains and knew she was having a heart attack — she had already suffered four. She squeezed the pendant around her neck and, within minutes, paramedics arrived at her home to give her emergency aid.

Mrs. Held, 64, now recovered, is one of more than a thousand persons who wear one-ounce transmitters, slightly larger than a pack of matches, around their necks or on their wrists. The device, which leases for $20 a month, allows a user to send a series of prerecorded telephone messages to paramedics, neighbors or police by triggering a separate sending unit plugged into a standard telephone jack.

Heart patients, disabled or elderly patients, shopkeepers worried about robbers or anyone else who may need help in an emergency can use the MicroAlert Pendant Transmitter, made by MicroAlert Systems International of North Hollywood.

"It's saved my life more than once," said

Mrs. Held. "I wouldn't be without the thing. All I have to do is push on that little button and I've got paramedics and everybody else here."

Tom Cataldo, the president of MSI, said he founded the firm three years ago after his mother suffered an attack and lay alone for several hours in her Boston home before help came.

Sisters Grady and Furrow are the first full-time sister missionaries ever assigned to BYU, a condition which Sister Grady said "excites the students quite a bit." But she said that students have the impression that they are assigned to BYU for the sole purpose of teaching girls. "We're here to teach everybody," Sister Grady said.

According to Elder Travis, the missionaries spend most of their time teaching and visiting non-members. "Students are real good about giving us referrals. We get them at devotionals, firesides and basketball games," he said. When asked what students could do to be more effective missionaries, Elder Travis said they should continue friendship non-members on campus.

Walking out of the Wilkinson Center are Elder Leslie Travis, Elder Earl Brundage, Sister Valerie Furrow and Sister Barbara Grady.

Theologians mull union of churches

LONDON (AP) — Vatican doctrines of the infallibility and primacy of the Pope should not bar Anglicans from closer ties with Roman Catholics, theologians of the two churches declared Wednesday.

In a document written by the 21-member Anglican-Catholic International Commission, they agreed that if the two churches united after four centuries of separation, Rome should have authority over the union.

A united church would link 580 million Roman Catholics and 60 million members of the Anglican Communion, including three million U.S. Episcopalians.

The document, called "Authority in the Church," was released after nearly eight years of study by the commission.

Vatican sources said Monday that Pope Paul VI had approved in principle the historic proposal of union. They said the pontiff declined giving full approval pending further study by bishops and scholars around the world.

The 4,400-word document, launched at a news conference, deals with the key leadership issue and does not discuss the mechanics of a possible merger.

It states that "if God's will for the unity in love and truth of the whole Christian community is to be fulfilled," the leadership "needs to be realized at the universal level."

On infallibility, the document said many Anglicans believe the supreme authority accorded the Pope gives him too much power over local churches.

Questioned on how the authors of the document could see greater communion developing between Anglicans and Catholics, the Anglican bishop of Ossory in Ireland, Henry McAdoo, said they expected to see them taking part together in church services and joining in Holy Communion.

Members of the commission said the document now will be discussed throughout both churches and recommendations eventually will emerge on their future relations.

The Church of England, which stands at the center of the Anglican Communion, is expected to debate the document next month at its regular February synod, a council of clergy and laity.

The primacy issue is crucial for many of the world's one billion Christians. The great schism of the Reformation, which founded Protestantism four centuries ago, was partly a revolt against the authority of the Pope.

'Antelope 1, this is ERDA... Gimme 10-20, good buddy'

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (AP) — Eastern Idaho residents who spot antelope wearing radio collars shouldn't jump to the conclusion the animals have joined the CB radio craze.

Actually, the radios are for research by the Energy Research and Development Administration. In a project funded jointly by the federal agency, Idaho Department of Fish and Game and University of Minnesota, researchers are attempting to track pronghorn antelope migration patterns.

The research hopes to find out why the animals migrate and what they eat along the way. Radio collars are monitored so the researchers each day can determine where the animals are.

TO JERUSALEM AND BACK

Now, from the Nobel Prize-winning novelist Saul Bellow, comes an extraordinary book, the result of his sojourn in Israel during several months in late 1975. To Jerusalem and Back is not only a personal record of his stay in Israel, but also a meditation, crackling with wit and controversy, on America's relationship with this embattled country. A major literary event and an urgently important journey into the heart of one of the most tragic and complex issues of this century.

Y cagers in key tilt at ASU

By BRAD REMINGTON
Assistant Sports Editor

When BYU and Arizona State step out on the court tonight in Tempe, no one knows for sure which team have shown up for the contest until after the opening tip-off.

The Cougars could suit up the squad that played poorly against Colorado State last weekend, or they could play the team that humiliated Wyoming the next night.

On the other hand, Arizona State is 0-2 in the WAC and just 8-7 overall. Yet, the Sun Devils have one of the most talented groups of athletes in the WAC this year. Coach Frank Arnold says that ASU, along with Arizona, has more talent than anyone else in the league.

Injuries

Arizona State has been hampered by injuries to two key players. Mark Landsberger, a 6-8 forward who was the last man cut off the U.S. Olympic team, and freshman Johnny Nash have both been hurt.

Nash, a 6-6 guard-forward out of Long Beach, Calif., was one of the nation's top 10 prospects out of high school. He, along with Landsberger and Tony Zeno, give Arizona State a tremendous front line when everybody is healthy. Arnold calls Zeno "one of the finest players in the conference."

Outside, ASU has Rick Taylor and James Holliman, two experienced backcourt men, to give the Sun Devils a strong attack. So the Maroon and gold-clad hoopsters could explode at any time, especially at home.

Good practice

Arnold says he won't know until after the game starts how his team will do against ASU. The team has practiced well this week, he says, but "the team had good practices last week and was bombed."

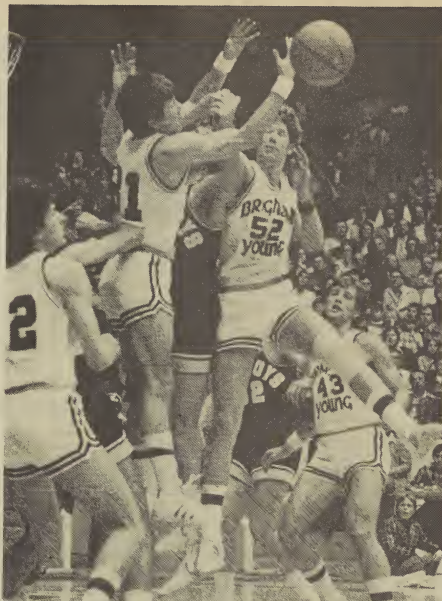

"That was the worst night of my life," the second-year mentor says about the Colorado State game. "The ball wasn't dropping for us, and everything seemed to go wrong. And I can't fault the team members; they were really trying."

The following night, overcoming the jitters of their conference opener, the Cougars went on a scoring spree to blow Wyoming out of the Marriott Center.

Because of the split at home, BYU needs at least a split in Arizona this weekend. The Sun Devils would probably be the easier of the two teams, with the Cougars tackling nationally ranked Arizona on Saturday.

Arnold has predicted that the WAC champion will lose at least three league games.

strength. Verne Thompson, who injured an ankle last weekend, has been practicing and is ready to play, BYU's coach says.

He adds "the team is both mentally and physically healthy."

Arnold's desire now is that the team which beat Wyoming and Utah State go to Arizona to play. That, and a hope that Arizona State doesn't break out of a slumber.

Matmen host Devils

Results of the BYU-Cal State-Fullerton wrestling match Wednesday night were not available at press time.

The dual meet of the year as far as BYU wrestlers are concerned takes place tonight at 8:30 in the Smith Fieldhouse when the Cougars meet ninth-ranked Arizona State in the second half of a gymnastics-wrestling doubleheader.

BYU meets Cal-State-Northridge at 5 p.m. in the gymnastics meet, and the ASU wrestling match will begin at 8:30. The Cougars also are in action at 2:30 p.m. Friday against Arizona.

Arizona State is currently 9-1. The Sun Devils' only loss was 21-20 to Oregon State (a team which beat BYU 24-19). The Sun Devils warmed up for the BYU appearance with a 23-11 victory Monday night over sixth-ranked Cal Poly-San Luis Obispo.

Dan Severn, a freshman from Michigan State, and 20 of those victories have come in the last 190, and his brother, Dave, has a record at 177.

Royce Oliver, fifth in the NCAA last year at 150, while Tim Jeffries is 25-2 at 134. Reed is 21-3 at 134.

BYU has made several adjustments to its lineup to combat ASU's strengths. Paul Fisher, a fourth-place NCAA finisher, can go back to the lineup at 126 so that Sam Hansen will move down to 138. Hansen to 150, Gene Patch to 158, 167 and Rory Needs to 177. The Cougars are vulnerable at 190, a where seldom-used Grant Whimer will be pressed into action, but Cal feels his team can be very competitive in the first eight weights.

Ute netters bring court for mixed team match

Question—When does the home court advantage cease to be the home court advantage?

Answer—When your opponents bring their own court with them.

This will be the case Saturday night in the Marriott Center when the mixed tennis teams from BYU and Utah meet in mid-winter matches. The action will take place in the Cougars' spacious facility, but the indoor playing surface that will be put over the main floor is actually the property of the Utes.

"It's one of the few portable courts in the area," explained Coach Wayne Pearce, "and we feel fortunate in being able to rent it from the University of Utah. It's the same one which was used in professional matches in Salt Lake City last year."

Gymnasts will face Northridge, Oregon

By JOY ROSS
Universe Sports Writer

BYU's men's gymnastics team enters the first dual meets of the season this week on home ground with matches against Cal State-Northridge and No. 1 ranked Oregon.

The gymnasts will take on Northridge Thursday at 5 p.m. in the Smith Fieldhouse as part of a doubleheader which includes the BYU-Arizona State wrestling match.

Saturday at 7:30 p.m., the team will face college gymnastics' No. 1 team, the University of Oregon. The Ducks have team-scored around 215 consistently this season, the top average score in the nation. They are led by Brock Grigas, who is undefeated in all-around competition.

The Oregon team also includes Don Lester, averaging 9.4 in floor exercise, All-American Curt Dogers, averaging 9.5 on the side horse, Pac-8 still rings champion Scott McEldowney, Israeli Olympian Miki Moyal, and freshmen Tom Truedson and Gene Christensen. Coach Bill Ballester calls the team "the most talented group ever."

The meets with Northridge and Oregon open a long string of home dual meets for the gymnasts. The only previous action for the team has been in the intrasquad Cougar Preview and against Nippon University from Japan. Cougar specialists also competed in the Oregon Invitational, but the all-around men did not perform.

Oregon also met Nippon University during the Japanese team's tour of the western United States. The Ducks scored 216.4 against Nippon, while BYU had a team 109.15. Nippon scored 218.05 at BYU and 221.0 at Oregon.

The Cougars are led in scoring by sophomore Isamu Maesato from Okinawa, Japan. Maesato scored a 53.80 all-around against Japan for third place all-around in the meet. Another top star for the Cougars is Arnold Neville, a sophomore from Durban, South Africa, who scored 51 points for seventh place all-around against Nippon; and senior Bryn Johnson, who had a 49.45 against Japan.

The Cougars will continue the home stand next week hosting Washington. The teams will compete in compulsory routines at 3:30 Thursday and in optional routines at 7:30 p.m. Friday.

team races canceled due of lack of snow

By JOY ROSS
Universe Sports Writer

Teams are having a hard time finding snow for the Intermountain Collegiate Ski Race held at Sundance this weekend, canceled due to the lack of snow. The race at Beaver Mountain in Utah was canceled.

"Some snow soon," said BYU ski coach, "there is a possibility that the race will have to be decided with the chance that next weekend, the teams will travel to Montana to race the Montana State. They've had a hard time having had down here."

That Utah, Utah State and BYU will also compete in the Montana State women's cross-country ski teams farred very well in the Citizens Races held last weekend in Park City.

The Citizens Races are held several times a year in Park City and are open to the public. No team scores are kept, but Cougar racers, both men and women, finished high in the standings.

Leading the women's team in the Senior Classified division, which is a 20-kilometer race or about six miles, was Ann Houghton, who finished first in a time of 52 minutes. BYU coeds also took second and third places in the race. Sherrie Simmons finished second in 52:11 and Cindy Greeze was third with a time of 52:39.

The men's team raced in two categories, Junior Classified, which is 10 kilometers, and Senior Classified, which is 15 kilometers, or close to nine miles.

The BYU men swept the first two places in the Junior division, with Dave LeDosquet taking first place in 34:07 and Alan Maughn finishing second in 38:34.

In the Senior men's division, BYU's Ernie Perry finished fourth in the time of 62:53.

Verne Thompson

By GIFFORD NIELSEN
Universe Sports Writer

The stuff is back in college basketball and Verne Thompson, the 6-6 Cougar forward, shows opponents how it's done.

The talented jumping-jack from Renton, Wash., says "The stuff is great! I love it!"

Against Utah State two weeks ago, Verne brought down the Marriott Center roof with a big sweeping stuff shot after an assist from Vance Law. The shot propelled BYU's victory, the first in the last seven games played between the two teams.

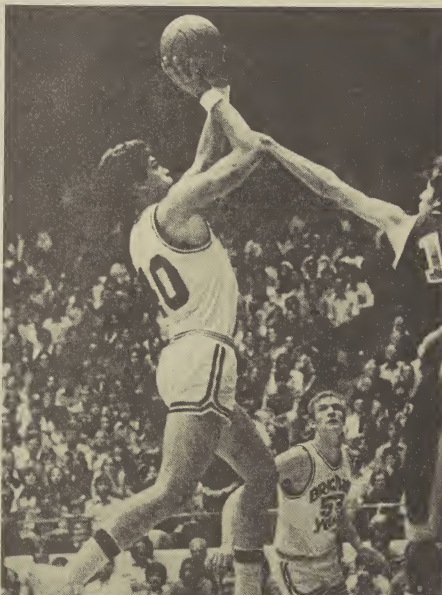

Verne's feelings on this year's team stem from the closeness of his teammates. "This year's team is quicker, stronger and more together than last year's. The coaches know the players better and the players know the coaches better."

Verne and one of his teammates were suspended from playing in the Cougar Classic in December for improper conduct off the court. "Coach Arnold was justified in what he did and I respect him for it," Verne states, "and I hated sitting in the stands watching." Last weekend the Cougars began their battle for the conference championship, playing Colorado State and Wyoming at home in the Marriott Center. The Cougars lost their first game to CSU, which is detrimental for a WAC team to do.

Verne explains it this way. "We don't usually miss the shots we missed that night. The ball was just not bouncing our way. Late in the game when we really needed the ball, we fouled a CSU player, hoping he would miss the foul shot and we could get the rebound."

"He missed the shot, the ball took a funny bounce and they regained control. That's the way it went for us all night."

BYU invades the Arizona country this week to play Arizona State Thursday night, then takes on 14th-ranked Arizona Saturday. "We can beat both those teams," Verne says. "I don't care if they are nationally ranked or not!"

Defended by a Utah State player, Verne Thompson goes up for a shot in the BYU win over the Aggies. Thompson is the Cougars' second-leading scorer, averaging 16.2 points a game.

When Thompson is not playing basketball, he enjoys target shooting, golfing, fishing and skiing.

Verne comes from a family that consists of one older sister and a younger brother. "My sister got the brains in the family, my brother is the mechanical one, and I'm the athletic one in the family," the senior says.

Attending BYU and not being a Mormon was not a hard adjustment for Thompson. He has enjoyed going to school here and has enjoyed the friends he has made. "BYU is a very fine institution," he comments, "but I have to admit that it is different than I thought it would be."

After graduating from BYU, Verne would like to play pro basketball. If that doesn't work out, however, he is majoring in law enforcement and would like to use it in some type of investigative work.

In speaking of the coaches, Thompson expressed, "Coach Arnold is one of the finest coaches in America today. Coach McMullen and Coach Anderson are also great coaches. They put in more time to make the program successful than anybody will ever know."

Coach Harry Anderson says Verne's greatest contribution to the team is his offensive scoring punch. "He is an excellent offensive player and works extremely hard to improve himself each day in practice."

Verne expressed gratitude for the way the fans have been lately. "The fans at BYU have been great and we appreciate their support. It really psychs the other team out when our fans act like they have been the last couple of games."

The team faces its strongest road trip of the WAC season this week. The Arizona schools had better be prepared, because when the Cougars and Verne Thompson invade them this week, they could get stuffed.

Y professor to get award

A BYU professor will receive an award for outstanding contributions in chemistry Friday.
Dr. James J. Christensen, professor of chemical engineering, will receive the 1976 Utah Award, which is given each year by the Central Utah and Salt Lake sections of the American Chemical Society to a person who has made outstanding contributions to the field of chemistry while residing in Utah.

low long another rate hike can be stalled is another question.

Taken by surprise, the irritated company already has spent more than $70,000 defending its rates in court and before the state's regulatory commission. Now it's asking even higher rates to recover those legal costs.

It says the high rates are needed because of "excellent service" its customers have received for years, including toll-free calling to Kalamazoo and Battle Creek some 25 miles away. Some $1.7 million spent for a new building and equipment sparked the 1975 hike, officials say.

But customers refuse to stomach that.

Their protest began one bitterly cold day in early December 1975. About 130 of Hickory's 930 customers gathered in front of Chuck Parker's general store, marched the few hundred feet to the company's tiny office and signed forms to end their phone service.

The increase in rates from the $10.60 charged since 1969 had been unanimously approved several days earlier by the state Public Service Commission.

But besieged afterward by petitions, phone calls and visits from the customers and their Kalamazoo attorney, Philip Hummer, the PSC agreed to take another look at the Hickory case.

Wormy II blends serious themes

Articles will be in the winter semester, Mel Thorne, on Mormon art, and the program will be included in the arts and sciences, and other issues in the arts. The BYU graduate school will be included in the Mormon artistic favor and against the consumption of sugar, and "Joseph Smith for Profit," which satirizes the series of books that have pulled statements of Joseph Smith out of context to get authority for the authors' own pet ideas or money making schemes.

Also featured will be "Jefferson's Views on Religion," "The Shooting Gallery," "Dialogue: The BYU Law School," and "Me and Socrates."

The January issue will be mailed to subscribers on Jan. 25, Thorne said. The February issue will feature "Joseph Smith: Prophet-Poet," which discusses ways in which Joseph was like such prophet-poets of the Old Testament as David, Isaiah and Job.

Also featured will be "Milton and the Modern Scholar," "Ancient Calendar Systems," "The Trapping Mechanism of the Venus Flytrap," "From Sea to Oil Sea: Cleaning Up Oil Spills," and "Crib Death."

Tangents is the annual scholarly publication of the Honors Program and will be the March issue of CENTURY II, according to Thorne. The April issue will be a "Special WYE Magazine

Colin Douglas
... BYU graduate student

Lorin F. Wheelwright
... responds to criticisms

Issue," which is the annual creative writing journal sponsored by the English Department.

Winter semester subscriptions to CENTURY II are on sale this week in the ELWC Reception Center, until 4 p.m. on Friday, said Thorne. Single issues will be sold at the BYU Bookstore later this semester at a cost higher than the subscription higher.

Thorne encouraged students to submit their best term papers and other writings to the student journal. "We need papers from every discipline, whether humorous, creative, commentarial, or scholarly," he said. Students should submit their papers typed and in duplicate to either 246 JKBA or 429 ELWC CENTURY II manuscript collection boxes.

Five BYU Press publications selected for worldwide tour

Five publications of the Brigham Young University Press have been selected for a prestigious worldwide tour, it was announced Wednesday by Ernest L. Olson, director of the BYU Press.

The titles chosen are "Custer in '76" by Dr. Kenneth Hammer, "Look to the Mountains" by Charles S. Peterson, "Confrontation at Worms" by De Lamar Jensen, "The Great Salt Lake" by Peter G. Gzerny, and "Fort Bridger" by Fred R. Gowan and Eugene E. Campbell.

The book exhibit, conducted by the U.S. Information Agency, covers the areas of scholarly publishing on the growth and development of the United States and a panorama of university press publishing depicting American interest in the histories of the people of the world.

The exhibit, entitled "The Historian's View," will begin in April 1977 and extend through April 1978, covering 19 countries and every major continent in the world. The tour begins in Pakistan, then travels to such countries as Australia, New Zealand, Nigeria, Romania, Sweden, Spain, Thailand, and the USSR.

"Custer in '76" is the first publication of 54 interviews with actual participants in the Battle of the Little Bighorn.

"Look to the Mountains" is a history of Utah's La Sal National Forest and a look at the character of the society that depended upon it. "Confrontation at Worms" outlines the history of the struggles of Martin Luther, strikingly illustrated with woodcuts and paintings.

Medical controls called needless

The American Congress to the testing of new combinations of Food and Drug Administration

The cancer researchers take a different view. "It is not bad to go to clinical trials early when life is ebbing away," says Dr. Vincent J. DeVita Jr., who is in charge of drug testing at NCI.

"The advanced cancer patients are simply a different population than normal people who might benefit from a new drug," Dr. DeVita says. "Ninety per cent of those with advanced metastatic (widely spread) cancer will be dead within a few months or a year. They should be given special consideration."

Proponents of cancer research around the country interviewed by The Associated Press agreed they would like to see the NCI take charge of development of experimental drugs in non-profit cancer centers.

They include Dr. R. Lee Clark, who is one of the three members of the President's Panel on Cancer, as well as president of the American Cancer Society and president of the University of Texas Cancer Research System.

This controversy, simmering for a year or more now, has come to a boil over proposed new FDA controls over combinations of drugs. This form of treatment involves the use of two or more drugs given together or in sequence.

This approach, combination chemotherapy, has produced good results in the treatment of leukemia and breast cancer. The separate drugs hit cancer cells at different stages of their development for a better total effect.

The FDA officials say that each drug has a toxic or undesirable side effect of its own, and they are worried that the combination may add up to more harm than expected from each drug alone.

Research leads I've had in 25 years, and I can't begin work on them," says Dr. Emil Freireich of the M.D. Anderson Hospital in Houston.

Pres. Wilkinson returns to Provo

Former BYU Pres. Ernest L. Wilkinson returned home Wednesday after being released from the LDS Hospital.

According to Edith Johnson, Dr. Wilkinson's secretary, he recovered faster than expected after an earlier heart attack.

Dr. Wilkinson, 77, suffered a heart attack while attending a Republican ball on Jan. 7.

"He is in the same stage he was at before he went to the hospital," Mrs. Johnson said.

New leaders take positions in Chamber

New officers and directors of the Provo City Chamber of Commerce were installed Tuesday night for the current year.

Sworn in as the new 1977 president of the chamber is W. Ward Heal. The president-elect, who will assume the presidential position in 1978, is M. Warner Murphy.

The former president of the Chamber of Commerce, Delbert R. "Deb" Warner, became the chairman of the past president's committee.

Other officers of the organization include Gordon W. Bullock, executive vice president, and Carolyn Cox, treasurer.

The installation of the officers and directors took place at the 56th Annual Installation Banquet of the Provo Chamber of Commerce, held in the banquet room, ELWC.

Also at the banquet, the 15 elected directors were announced along with the appointed directors of the seven subcommittees of the organization.

Russell D. Grange, Provo City Mayor, presented community service awards to seven area residents—Edwin D. Firmage Sr., K. E. Bullock, Mark "Hal" Magley, Victor and Josephine Bird, N. LaVerl Christensen and Joseph Ahlander.

The highlight of the evening was the guest speaker, E. Doyle Robison, director of the Skaggs Institute of Retail Management at BYU.

Robison is a native Utahn and graduate of BYU in business administration and accounting with minors in marketing and economics.

Student offers students aid in solving problems have trouble coping because of pressures of their environments. "People need to know how to solve their problems creatively and perceptively," he said.

The experiment will also be conducted at Weber State College and the University of Utah. The six training sessions will be held twice weekly for two hours each.

"The training sessions will be fun and rewarding for the participants," he said. Students interested in participating should call or visit the counseling center, C-273 ASB.

One area of discussion will focus on recognizing an existing problem.

Friends at funeral join to honor actor

By PETER J. BOYER
Associated Press Writer

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — More than 200 persons gathered at a funeral service Tuesday to honor Peter Finch as actor and friend.

Paddy Chayefsky, who wrote the screenplay for "Network," praised Finch's portrayal in that film of a demoted TV anchorman. Finch already has been honored with a Golden Globe nomination for the part.

Chayefsky said in a eulogy that he had "been in awe of him (Finch) for years. He was in that very select circle of great actors. He dignified his parts." Finch, 60, collapsed and died last Friday. His last movie role has won acclaim throughout the industry, leading many to believe Finch will be the first to receive an Oscar posthumously.

Standing before Finch's flower-draped casket in the Church of the Good Shepherd, actor George Kennedy said of his friend, "He was the least selfish actor I ever knew."

Ladd Thomas, chairman of the organ department at the University of Southern California, will perform Tuesday in Lyceum Concert.

Famous organist to play in Lyceum

The BYU Department of Music will present organist Ladd Thomas in a Lyceum concert Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the HFAC Madsen Recital Hall.

He is past dean of the Pasadena Chapter of the American Guild of Organists, past Southern California State chairman, and is presently serving as chairman of the Western Region and national counselor of the American Guild of Organists.

Thomas recently returned from Europe, where he presented a recital at the famed Mozarteum in Salzburg as well as appearing in performances in Italy and Yugoslavia. He has recorded with the Los Angeles Philharmonic and the Roger Wagner Choral.

Greek poetess named winner

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Olga Broumas, a visiting instructor in Women's Studies at the University of Oregon, has been named the winner of the Yale Series of Younger Poets competition for her volume "Beginning With O."

Ms. Broumas, a feminist poet, is the first winner of this competition to write in English as an adopted language. She was born on the island of Syros, Greece.

The scene of Gene Kelly in a drenching rain storm, dancing to his heart's content and singing with wanton disregard for his health or audience, has often moved others to gaiety during a downpour.

This week, the Film Society sponsors one of Arthur Freed's musical successes which not only has achieved "classic" status in film, but is established as a sentimental favorite for millions. The film owes much of its success to Gene Kelly.

In the history of Hollywood, only two male dancers have emerged as major stars. One, of course, is Fred Astaire, the other is Kelly. Kelly has not only established himself as a great dramatic dancer, but also actor, choreographer and movie director.

"Singin' in the Rain" is a favorite because of a long list of successful Kelly movies including "Time of Your Life," "An American in Paris," "Cover Girl," and "Ziegfeld Follies."

When asked about the significant achievements of the film, Gene Kelly, president of Film Society, said, "Every

'Singin' next for society

Famous for the scene with which the movie gets its title, the 1952 "Singin' in the Rain" could be MGM's most affluent production.

The film is intimate and vibrant with a light, happy tone of well-done comedy and music. An example of this is a scene where Kelly and sidewalk Donald O'Connor cynically help a diction instructor as they prepare for the era of sound films.

Perhaps the greatest nostalgic reward is seeing young Debbie Reynolds perform. She makes her first appearance when Kelly falls into her car, and performs captivatingly throughout the film. Jean Hagen plays a not-too-bright beauty with an atrocious speaking voice. The voice was fine for the silent era but comes over bad for the talkies. An attractive Cyd Charisse does a performance along with Kelly and proves that beauty and grace will give great results. An example to watch for is the scene in which Kelly imagines a love-dance with a voluptuous figure employing the pitfalls of Broadway stardom.

The film is sometimes described as "the film industry's reflection of itself." "Singin' in the Rain" will be presented tonight at 7 and 8:30 p.m., and Friday and Saturday at 6:30, 8 and 9:30 p.m., in room 446 MARB.

Rock opera to feature story of 'Evita' Peron

By TOM JORY
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Would you listen to a rock opera about the life of Eva Peron? No, it's not a joke.

Eva Duarte Peron, second wife of Argentine dictator Juan Peron, may be an unlikely subject for the idiom that produced Elvis and the Beatles, but how would a rock opera on the life of Christ strike you if you hadn't heard of "Jesus Christ Superstar"?

Well, the boys who brought you "Superstar" now bring you "Evita," a serious, entertaining, hard rock look at the woman who rose dramatically from less-than-respectable beginnings to the side of one of South America's most dominant figures.

She's an extremely impressive person, a remarkable person," said Tim Rice, 32, who wrote the words for "Evita." "And that doesn't mean one admires her 100 per cent. I like to say most people are good and bad. She was very good and very bad."

The rock opera was unveiled in album form here this week for the media and selected trendsetters, including Sylvia Miles and Prince Egon von Furstenburg. A head-start single of one of the opera's most stirring songs, "Don't Cry for Me, Argentina," already has sold a quarter-million copies in England.

Rice caught the idea for "Evita" from a radio broadcast he heard in 1973, spent some time in Argentina "getting the facts and a feel for the country," then returned home to England to sell the idea to Andrew Lloyd Webber.

Rice got the facts - Eva Peron's mundane background, her career in motion pictures and on the radio, her marriage to then-Col. Juan D. Peron and the brief decade she spent as one of the world's most glamorous, powerful and beloved women. It ends with her death from cancer in 1952 at 33.

"I was not trying to make a political point," he said. "I was concerned with what made her tick. It wasn't going to be a deep, scholastic study."

Y jazz group to give concert

The jazz magic of BYU's Synthesis "SRO" returns to the de Jong Concert Hall at 8 p.m.

Following its debut with jazz trumpeter Chuck Mangione, Synthesis "SRO" promises a performance of jazz, folk, blues and rock unequalled by any other performance group within the valley. The huge success of the group is attributed to Director K. Newell Dayley, who forsook the initial breakthrough and revival of jazz in the Mountain West. The success of Synthesis is now acclaimed from New York, home of Mangione, to the jazz festivals of Southern California, where Synthesis "SRO" stole the show.

The primary goal of the group, as a class within the Department of Music, is to give its members an opportunity for jazz improvisation as well as in performance and composition. The technical difficulty of the work requires the musicians to be excellent artists and quick thinkers to handle the spur-of-the-moment "jamming."

The public is invited. Tickets are available at the Music Box Office, students are admitted with activity card.

Faculty concert is tonight

Four members of the BYU Department of Music will perform Thursday at 8 p.m. in the HFAC Madsen Recital Hall.

According to Iain McKay, director of the concert promotion, Heidi McKay, soprano; David Randall, clarinet; Ted Wright, flute; and Nibley, piano will perform a variety of works.

Several major works will be performed during the concert, said McKay. Included will be Schubert's "Shepherd on the Rock," which McKay called one of the great artistic gems of all time and "The Enchanted Flute" from Ravel's "Sheherazade."

"Four Fragments from Chaucer's Canterbury Tales" by contemporary composer Lester Trimble will also be performed, McKay said. According to McKay, the text for the work is from the Canterbury Tales and will be sung in Middle English. McKay noted that this task is a difficult one for a singer.
